the Victory Garden

for victory over global warming

Why should I plant a Victory Garden?

Our food travels many miles from farm to table. The process of planting, fertilizing, processing, packaging, and transporting our food uses a great deal of energy and contributes to the cause of global warming.

I have no backyard, what can I do?

You can plant in containers on your porch, patio, or balcony and can grow sprouts indoors. You can also purchase foods which are grown close to home by visiting your local farmer's market. If local foods are not available to you, choose foods which are organic, in season, or bulk.

Wondering how to get started?

Contact your local County Extension office for information on gardening in your area.
